Two top divas in Toronto this weekend

Dance-pop superstar Britney Spears is heavy on the comeback and plays two nights at the Air Canada Centre, Saturday and Sunday, pumping the release of her latest album, Femme Fatale. Sharp-tongued rapper Nicki Minaj is also on the bill. Straight-talking Ke$ha hits the Molson Canadian Amphitheatre Sunday for KiSS 92.5's WHAM BAM 2011. Party Rock has become a summer anthem for fans of LMFAO, who also play WHAM BAM.

Predator stalking women?

Most sex assaults in daylight over past few months Suspect described as Asian

Toronto police believe there is a sexual predator prowling North York, violently attacking women, often in broad daylight.

The idea sends goosebumps up Elaine Kim's arms as she stands in the leafy walkway off Averill Crescent near Yonge Street and Finch Avenue West. The shortcut from Finch subway station was the scene of a violent sexual assault on July 11. Both Kim and her friend Ayaka Fukuhara are similar to the victims of the predator — five out of six were Asian women between 20 and 39.

Four of the attacks occurred in the Yonge Street and Finch Avenue area, one was west of Yonge Street on Finch Avenue and another at Don Mills and Finch Avenue.

"I am scared."
ELAINE KIM, WHO SAID SHE AND HER FRIEND AYAKA FUKUHARA HAD JUST SIGNED A LEASE TO MOVE INTO THE NEIGHBOURHOOD

The assaults mostly occurred in daylight, between 4:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. One took place at 1:30 a.m. The man approaches the women from behind and sexually assaults them.

The person of interest is described as Asian, 20 to 25 years old, five-foot-six to five-foot-eight, with short, black hair and clean shaven. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Fords say no to Olympics

Coun. Doug Ford says the mayor's office has rejected an overture for Toronto to participate in a bid for the Olympic Games.

Ford said he and his brother, Mayor Rob Ford, last week reviewed and rejected a "preliminary sheet" from a civic group exploring the feasibility of a bid.

The councillor said the city is in no financial shape to take a risk on the Games.

Cops charged

What started as a dispute between a motorist and an enforcement officer over a parking ticket has resulted in two police officers being charged with assault causing bodily harm.

On Thursday, the Special Investigations Unit charged constables Manpreet Kharbar and Paul Ramos with assaulting motorist Keith Ryan while in custody.

The charges relate to an April 24 altercation that began when Ryan allegedly attacked Devon Henry after being issued a ticket.

Police were called and Ryan was arrested and taken to 14 Division, where he alleges that he was assaulted by the two constables.

Later on, Ryan was taken to hospital with facial fractures. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Police blamed for aggression at G20 rally

More than 1,000 people were detained during June weekend last year

A Toronto judge has ruled that "adrenalized" police officers acted as aggressors at a peaceful political rally that led to dozens of arrests at the intersection of Queen Street and Spadina Avenue during last June's G20.

Justice Melvyn Green stated on Thursday that the actions of police on June 26 criminalized the fundamental freedom of political demonstration, which is "vital" to maintain a "viable democracy."

The ruling was in response to charges against protester Michael Puddy.

"The only organized or collective physical aggression at that location that evening was perpetrated by police each time they advanced on demonstrators."
JUSTICE MELVYN GREEN

The London bricklayer was on his way to a concert downtown when he joined the front line of the late-night rally. Puddy was wearing a "Police Bastards" T-Shirt named after a punk band, when he was pushed to the ground and cuffed.

Puddy was shuffled from officer to officer and eventually transported to the temporary Prisoner Processing Unit in east Toronto. He spent two days behind bars, forced to sleep on a concrete floor and use a toilet without a door before he was released on $25,000 bail.

Sgt. Ash Awad testified he "assumed" Puddy had been arrested for breaching the peace when he found him bound at his wrists. Awad found that Puddy was carrying a knife.

Puddy said he always carried the folding knife on his belt because it's a useful tool on construction sites.

He was charged with obstructing police, concealing a weapon and possession of a prohibited weapon. The first two charges were dismissed during his trial in May. Green found Puddy not guilty of the final charge on Thursday.

Green found that Puddy was arrested "completely without justification."

Going from coddling to counting

Preschoolers in a Rexdale neighbourhood are getting an early taste of a classroom setting

RICK EGLINTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Highfield Junior School Kindergarten students who take a four-week prep course at the Rexdale school take part in last day of school activities on Thursday.

Tears were flowing the first day of a summer "practice" kindergarten program in Rexdale, separation anxiety was off the charts, faces were pressed against the windows.

And that was just the mothers.

In this high-needs, largely South Asian neighbourhood near Finch and Kipling avenues, parents admit they coddle their toddlers in ways that can make them less ready for school — "it's a cultural thing; we baby them," admits instructor Syamala Srivarapathy, who is Sri Lankan — which is why an early taste of kindergarten helps cut the ties that bind.

It has proven so helpful, it was stretched to four weeks last year from its original two.

"I cried that day because I knew my son now has responsibilities, like getting out of bed in the morning to come to school," said Kinjal Shah, whose son Ayush was one of nearly 100 children to "graduate" Thursday from the special four-week Summer Enrichment Project at Highfield Junior School, where they will start junior kindergarten this fall.

"Now I know it is good for him to learn to listen and colour — he loves to colour — and learn English and not sit at home as much and watch TV," said Shah, whose family speaks Gujarati at home. "It helps his mind to grow. Before, he was just a kid."

Tips for parents

Highfield summer program's tips for parents before kindergarten

- Writing their name. Help them learn to write their name, even if you have to help them hold the pencil and trace the letters.
- Calendar. Go over the calendar. What day is it today? Which month? What year?
- Books. Take your child to the library to get out books and have them tell you about the pictures at home.
- Bathroom. Don't help them in the bathroom; let them learn to pull up their own pants and wash their hands.
- Feeding. Don't feed them; let them feed themselves.

In these bustling newcomer families from India, Pakistan and Sri Lanka, children have little exposure to nursery or daycare routines before landing in public school. Nearly 90 per cent don't speak English at home. Many don't recognize their name in English, have never held a pencil or scissors, some have not held a book and many have not been taught to use the toilet on their own.

The structure and socializing of kindergarten can prove overwhelming, a place with strange grown-ups, strange routines and a strange language.

But this "dry run" a few weeks beforehand helps both children and parents get used to the routines and being away from each other, said program director Elnora Magboo.

Liberals pledge to make licence renewal easier

Ontario's governing Liberals are promising to make it easier — and faster — to renew your driver's licence or health card, The Canadian Press has learned.

If they win the Oct. 6 election, the Liberals plan to introduce a service guarantee to refund any provincial fees if people have to wait more than 20 minutes at a ServiceOntario outlet, sources said Thursday.

The clock would start ticking when a person checks in at ServiceOntario. If the person isn't called back to the counter within 20 minutes, all fees will be waived.

The guarantee would apply to any personal transactions at ServiceOntario, including applying for a birth certificate or changing your address.

It costs $74 to renew a licence plate sticker for a passenger vehicle in southern Ontario and $37 in northern Ontario, while fees for registering a newborn range from $25 to $35.

The Liberals also plan to allow families to change renewal dates for health cards and driver's licences, usually each person's birthday, so everyone in the family can renew their cards at the same time and "avoid multiple visits to ServiceOntario," said one source.

CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Transportation Minister Kathleen Wynne confirmed the service guarantee plan late Thursday.

"Well I think it's just the next step in improving service to people," said Wynne.

"It can be very frustrating to wait in line and not to know when you're going to be served."

However, the New Democrats were not impressed with the Liberal plan, questioning why it took them eight years to offer a service guarantee.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

GO Train

- Promise. The promise of new ServiceOntario guarantees came one day after Premier Dalton McGuinty announced a service guarantee for GO Train commuters in the Toronto area.
- Refunds. GO passengers will get a refund for their trip if their trains are more than 15 minutes late, but there are several exceptions where there would be no refunds if the train is late, including bad weather or a police emergency.

Director 'shocked' by Ford comments

'Where does he live — in a hole somewhere?' Norman Jewison says of Doug Ford, who stoked controversy last month when he claimed he didn't know who Margaret Atwood was Acclaimed Canadian director Norman Jewison says he was "shocked" by Coun. Doug Ford's dismissive comments about author Margaret Atwood.

Asked by CBC Radio if he had any comment on Ford's statement last month that "If she walked by me, I wouldn't have a clue who she is," the 85-year-old director of Moonstruck and dozens of other films didn't hold back.

"I don't think we celebrate our artists like we should and other countries celebrate them," he said. "So when you get somebody in Toronto on the city council and he doesn't know who Margaret Atwood is, that's shocking to me. I'm just absolutely shocked."

He added, "The world knows who Margaret Atwood is. I mean, why doesn't he? Where does he live — in a hole somewhere?"

PAWEL DWULIT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Norman Jewison

Jewison, who was born in Toronto, attended the U of T and founded the Canadian Film Centre on Bayview Avenue, noted he has made many films on the theme of betrayal.

"I felt that Margaret Atwood was betrayed," he said, "but I felt all Canadian artists were betrayed by a statement like that."

The comments are the latest fallout from the Atwood-Ford spat, which started with Atwood, a frequent Twitter user, simply retweeting a petition to save Toronto libraries from cuts or privatization.

She then criticized Doug Ford's erroneous comment that there are more libraries in his ward than Tim Hortons and that he would happily close one of them.

Give cyclists more space: NDP

Ontario's New Democrats are vowing to make roads safer for cyclists by imposing rules to keep cars at least one metre away from bicycles.

"We have to get serious about making sure that people can safely ride bicycles in this province," Leader Andrea Horwath said Thursday, unveiling her party's environmental platform.

The election promise comes with a $15-million annual investment for cycling infrastructure to help municipalities enforce the rule, and includes fines for drivers who don't give cyclists the required space.

Such fines have yet to be decided, but in Nova Scotia, which has a similar one-metre rule, the cost of a first-time offence is $280.

Horwath admitted such a rule would be hard to enforce, saying it is meant more as an educational tool than a way to punish drivers. THE CANADIAN PRESS

UN assailed for silence on riots

Iran's President, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, has urged the United Nations Security Council to take action over the rioting in Britain, arguing it was hypocritical in its reaction to such events.

Ahmadinejad, whose government is under international sanction for its nuclear program and has been condemned by Western countries such as Britain for its handling of protests, also called on British officials to listen to the demands of their people.

"The UN is silent. Human rights bodies are silent," Ahmadinejad said on state radio.

"If one per cent of this happens in countries that oppose the West, they scream until they are hoarse."

He asked: "Why is the Security Council silent?" THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Britain's PM vows to crush the 'violent few'

He'll ask U.S. for advice after four-night orgy of gang thuggery

Prime Minister David Cameron says Britain will look to the United States for solutions to gang violence after nights of riots and looting.

He promised British authorities will get strong powers to stop street mayhem erupting again.

Cameron told lawmakers Thursday he is "acting decisively to restore order on our streets," as police raided houses to round up suspects from four nights of unrest in London and other English cities.

Cameron said authorities are considering new powers, including allowing police to order thugs to remove masks or hoods, evicting troublemakers from subsidized housing and temporarily disabling cellphone instant-messaging services. He said the 16,000 police deployed on London's streets to deter rioters and reassure residents will remain through the weekend.

"Nothing should be off the table ... whether there are tasks the army could undertake that would free up more police for the front line."
PRIME MINISTER DAVID CAMERON

"We will not let a violent few beat us," Cameron said during a parliamentary session lasting almost three hours.

He mentioned former Los Angeles, New York and Boston Police Chief William Bratton as a person who could help offer advice. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Games going for the gold

After days of silence while images of fires, looting and riots were beamed across the world's TV screens, the chief organizer of the London Olympics finally spoke and essentially said: The state of the games is fine.

Sebastian Coe, an Olympic great and former parliament member, said Thursday he has conferred with IOC President Jacques Rogge and other sports leaders on the mayhem in Britain.

He said they assured him the image of the Olympics — to be held in less than a year — would not be scarred by the British violence.

"We will continue our contingency plans," Coe said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mugging video shocks victim

A Malaysian student attacked during London's riots says he was shocked as he watched a videotape of thugs rifling through his belongings while he bled on a sidewalk.

Mohammad Asyraf Haziq Rossli gave a halting news conference Thursday, saying he was stunned that some of his attackers "were children."

The video showing the attack Monday has gone viral — a chilling example of the four days of unrest.

About 20 teens and preteens surrounded Rossli, grabbed his bike, took his cellphone — and broke his jaw. "I don't believe it myself," said the 20-year-old accounting student.

Rossli said that it took some time to process the news, saying that when he looked at the video he kept saying, "Is that really me?" THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Female bombers stage twin attacks in Pakistan

- Tactics show a degree of sophistication, but are not unprecedented
- Most Islamist militants based in the northwest, close to Afghanistan

MOHAMMAD SAJJAD/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ People comfort a boy who mourns the death of his family member after a suicide bombing in Peshawar, Pakistan on Thursday.

A teenage girl wearing a suicide vest, along with a woman attacked Pakistani police guarding the scene of an earlier explosion in the northwest on Thursday — twin strikes that killed five people and broke a relative lull in militant violence in the country.

Islamist extremists with links to al-Qaida have waged a bloody campaign against Pakistan's pro-Western rulers since 2007, targeting police, government and Western targets. Up to 35,000 people have been killed, raising fears abroad over the stability of the nuclear-armed nation.

In the first attack Thursday, a remote-controlled bomb exploded in Peshawar's Lahori Gate area as a police truck carrying constables about to start their shift drove by. Four police officers and a boy passing by were killed, while 22 people were wounded.

An hour later, a woman and a girl approached the police guarding the area. One of the females threw a grenade, then was able to partially detonate her suicide vest, said Shafqat Malik, a police officer with the bomb disposal unit.

The woman appeared to be 16 or 17 years old, he said. They both died in the blast.

"I thought the girl was pregnant as she was walking slowly with another woman. As I tried to push people away, suddenly a blast took place," said police officer Himayat Ullah, who was wounded in the attack. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAMKELE MHLONGO, GREYTOWN POLICE TRANSLATOR

The words of little children from an isolated town in rural South Africa may have stopped an international sex predator.

U.S. investigators say Jesse Osmun confessed that as a Peace Corps volunteer, he for months sexually molested at least five girls at a South African shelter for AIDS orphans and other children. None of the girls were older than six.

In a Twitter account and blogs Osmun portrayed himself as a champion of Africa and wrote about working with children. Before going to South Africa in March 2010, Osmun volunteered at an orphanage in Kenya.

His do-gooder identity may have helped cover a darker side. Then the little girls spoke. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Women flee famine, face sex assaults

A UN envoy is expressing concern about reports of sexual attacks against Somali women fleeing famine.

Margot Wallstrom, the secretary-general's special representative on sexual violence in conflict, said in a statement Thursday that women and girls "are subjected to attacks, including rape, by armed militants and bandits" on the journey to the Kenyan border.

Once in Kenya or at the Dadaab refugee camp, she said, "their hopes of finding a safe haven are often overshadowed by new dangers and hardships, including the risk of rape." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police probing 'Mabus Affair'

Worldwide complaints of alleged online threats from Montreal man Suspect's mom says: 'He's not a threat'

Montreal police probing the musings of a Montreal man allegedly threatening people online have received so many complaints that they are urging tipsters to stop emailing and let them do their investigative work.

While some say past complaints to police have fallen on deaf ears, the force said it hadn't actually received a formal complaint until this week.

"We need a complaint (to investigate). We're not patrolling the web," said Lt. Ian Lafreniere.

"Someone decided two days ago to fill out a report so that's why we started an investigation."

Complaints

- In the past few days, more than 3,000 people have signed a petition calling on police to investigate reports of death threats against atheists and secular scientists. Each signature resulted in an email to police.
- Some people allegedly being threatened say the Montrealer, who goes by the online moniker "David Mabus" among a number of pseudonyms, has been at it for nearly 20 years.

The suspect's name has circulated on the Internet but police have not named him, so far, because no charges have been laid in the so-called "Mabus Affair."

His mother, reached by phone at a home she shares with him, said the incident involving her 36-year-old son is being blown out of proportion.

Police said they are investigating threats made by email and, primarily, on Twitter.

The online petition states that while the suspect was previously considered a minor annoyance, "the intensity and frequency of his communications have increased."

Not every Dartmouth boy has his own replica Samurai helmet straight from Japan.

Nine-year-old Aleks Burchill stood wide-eyed as Rear Admiral Umio Otsuka, commander of the Japanese Training Squadron, presented him with the stunning gift onboard a Japanese ship.

Three Japanese ships arrived in Halifax Thursday morning as part of a five-month training cruise.

Burchill was recognized for his efforts in fundraising and sending more than 1,000 paper cranes to the people of Japan after the devastating earthquake and tsunami struck in March.

RYAN TAPLIN/METRO

▶ Aleks Burchill

Receiving such a gift in return was "fun and exciting," he added.

"I'm going to put it in my room where I've put all my other stuff from this project."

Being able to express gratitude for the international response makes this a special training cruise, said Otsuka.

"The Canadian government sent blankets for the people in the refuge in a very timely manner soon after the disaster occurred.

"People were hurt and scared and they pretty much lost everything. I decided I really wanted to do something to help." ALEKS BURCHILL

After that a lot of charity programs were running to help the people in Japan," he said.

"And the moral support from people like Aleks boosts our feelings up."

Reconstruction is still ongoing but thankfully only one part and not the whole country was struck by the earthquake and tsunami.

"The country is fully functioning and I urge you to go to Japan to spend your holiday," he said.

LAST TRIP FOR SUB

It was a sad day for submariners as a piece of Canadian naval history was carried out of the harbour on Thursday destined for an Ontario scrapyard.

The Okanagan, one of four Halifax-based Oberon-class submarines, was carried out on a barge in the morning. She's following the same journey her sister submarine, the Olympus, made in July to a shipwreckers in Lake Erie.

"It's sad when I think of the number of people who have gone through that submarine," said D.H. (Buster) Brown who served on the Okanagan for 13 years.

The Onondaga was spared the scrapyard and delivered to a museum in Rimouski, Que., in 2008. Now the last remaining Oberon rusting in the Halifax Harbour is the Ojibwa. The Elgin Military Museum is currently negotiating with the federal government and raising funds to house the Ojibwa as a museum exhibit in Port Burwell, Ont.

▶ Face transplant recipient Charla Nash, from left, before her injury, and before and after her surgery in photographs released by the family on Thursday.

New face unveiled

◗ 57-year-old Nash was attacked in February 2009 by 200-pound chimpanzee ◗ Left her blind and disfigured

The new face of a Connecticut woman who was mauled by a chimpanzee two years ago has been revealed for the first time in photos showing a startling transformation.

The pictures of Charla Nash were first shown on NBC's Today show Thursday morning. Nash, who had a face transplant in May, didn't appear on the program because family members said she was too weak to do an interview. Photos were later released by Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital, where the surgery was performed. Prior to the surgery, Nash was often photographed wearing a veil to hide her disfigurement.

"It's wonderful to see how Charla's recovery has progressed as she continues taking steps toward her new life," said Dr. Bohdan Pomahac, director of the BWH Plastic Surgery Transplantation Program.

Nash said in a statement that she's looking forward to doing things she once took for granted, including being able to smell, eat normally, speak clearly and kiss loved ones.

Social experiment allows anyone to use Starbucks card

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICES

▶ Jonathan Stark's Starbucks card is available to anyone with Internet access.

You're on your way to work and realize as you start dozing off on the bus that you need a coffee, but you have no money.

Fear not. A new social experiment launched by Providence, R.I.-based mobile-app consultant Jonathan Stark aims to clear out those morning cobwebs even if you don't have the cash.

Stark has made his Starbucks card available to anyone who has Internet, and is inviting people to have a coffee on him. Or, if you're in a giving mood, you can add a few bucks to the card.

All you have to do is go to Stark's website, download the image of his card's barcode, and give that to the cashier to scan. (The scanners must be the handheld type)

Since the project launched last month, more than $9,000 in anonymous donations has been added to the card. A Twitter account linked to the card announces balance updates every few minutes.

While more than 1,000 people have been enjoying free coffee, bloggers are accusing Stark of duping users into participating in a viral marketing campaign on behalf of Starbucks.

"That's just absurd," Stark told the Toronto Star. "The thing that really bothers me is that the mere suggestion that this is some kind of scam could potentially ruin the good feeling people were having."

France works for calm

Market rebound fragile: Economists ◗ Regulators tighten surveillance

French bankers and officials scrambled to calm nerves on Thursday after two days of whipsaw trading that saw their banks' market value fall and rise by billions of euros.

By late in the day those efforts appeared to settle markets jittery about the health of French banks and the heavily indebted U.S. and European economies.

The leaders of the eurozone's biggest economies, Germany and France, said they will meet Tuesday to discuss solutions to Europe's financial difficulties.

Bank of France head Christian Noyer blamed "unfounded rumours" for plunges in the shares of top banks, including Societe Generale and BNP Paribas, and said the country's financial institutions were sound. The country's market regulator warned of sanctions against anyone who fuels or profits from rumours that fed the sell-off ▶ French President Nicolas Sarkozy, left, discusses the financial crisis with officials in Paris on Wednesday.

France is taking pains to assure markets that it won't be the next to see its credit rating downgraded.

"There's nothing behind it. It's a market of mal-intentioned speculators trading on pure rumours."
MARC TOUATI, ECONOMIST AT FRENCH TRADING FIRM ASSYA COMPAGNIE FINANCIERE

French President Nicolas Sarkozy cut short his holiday Wednesday and ordered his ministers to come up with new budget cuts to ensure that France sticks to deficit-cutting targets.

All three leading credit rating agencies reaffirmed their triple-A assessment of France, and analysts said they could not identify a trigger for the market turmoil.

France's growth prospects are considerably better than those of Italy and Spain's, but its economic expansion is slowing and it's failed for years to reduce a deficit that stood at 7.1 per cent last year. No other eurozone economy with a triple-A rating has a higher debt than France's — around 85 per cent of national income.

Bankers protest pay system change

Workers at the South Korean unit of Standard Chartered PLC have been on strike since June 27 to protest the planned change next year to a performance-based pay system from the current seniority-based scheme. The longest-running strike in the country's banking sector has forced the bank to close 42 branches.

NOTHING SAYS YOU HAVE AN STI LIKE AN E-CARD

THE METRO LIST

MIKE BENHAIM
METRO

1 Mad world: A group of musicians including Eminem and Gaga are shooting a video in support of famine relief in Somalia. In London, hundreds gather in support of iPads and flat-screen TVs.

2 Who's zooming whom?: Canada's largest trading partner now has bad credit, and it reminds me of the time I drove my Altima to co-sign for my brother's new Porsche. Hey Stephen Harper, now might be a good time to buy Hawaii.

3 Sports metaphor: The NBA has locked players out pending revisions to the collective bargaining agreement, but their leverage is dwindling as stars like Kobe and LeBron consider playing in China. And they say life imitates art? Let's just hope they get paid in yen.

4 That's the spirit: It's Spirit Week in Winnipeg, and commuters get to ride the "Spirit buses" for free, explore the city's core, and see live musical performances. Consequently, a ride on Toronto transit is just as fun. Last week, I saw a guy talk to himself in two languages he didn't understand, a lady who believed she controlled the subway doors with her mind and a Jerry Garcia-looking dude playing air violin. Now that's entertainment!

5 Hospital-ity: A story in the Montreal Gazette pronounced that Canadians live longer and healthier lives than Americans, while paying less for health care. I have always maintained that it is cheaper to be insulted by frustrated, underpaid nurses in Canada than just about anywhere.

6 Johnny's Drama: The final season of Entourage is underway, and rumour has it they're taking their antics to the big screen. Executive producer Mark Wahlberg says he's even willing to fund it himself, which makes me think, "I'd really like to be friends with Mark Wahlberg."

7 Boob tube: This week began a new season of Bachelor Pad, proving that there is always an audience for lowliness. The 20 minutes I did watch took me through a range of emotions from shame to melancholy, but ultimately left me feeling much better about myself. Maybe they're on to something.

8 Clap on. Clap off. The B.C. government developed a website, InSpot.org, that lets promiscuous citizens send anonymous emails telling sexual partners that they have been exposed to an STI. They're keeping it simple for now, but eventually they will have creative greetings like, "I know you're a vegetarian. Sorry about the crabs," or "Merry Christmas. This card entitles you to 15 per cent off antibiotics." With news like this, the jokes just write themselves.

9 Money for nothin': This year's Teen Choice Awards were like a remix of Duck Sauce's Barbara Streisand song. The same names uttered repeatedly to a beat like, "Boom, Boom ... Justin Bieber. Boom, Boom ... Taylor Swift. Boom, Boom ... Selena Gomez." The Situation was upset he lost the award for male reality star to friend Pauly D. Why is this even a category? You acquire outrageous fortune with no talent and less than half a brain, and we should give you an award?

RE: 'She was like a very bright light trapped in a dark room', published Aug. 10.

We need more articles like that about how families and their mentally ill loved ones suffer because of lack of appropriate care for them in Canada.

Our situation is very alike. We too, sent our daughter to a U.S. hospital for treatment that is not available in Canada. It was very hard to be admitted to the hospital in the U.S. in the first place because they knew there was no appropriate and crucial follow up in Canada after treatment. We too paid about $45,000 US per month for hospitalization, then tried to place our daughter in a private facility in Manitoba. It all didn't work only because in the city like Toronto there is no facility to follow up after treatments abroad.

After so many years reaching out for help our daughter is losing hope. It is a shame for the nation not to care for the most vulnerable and very ill, helpless citizens. Most of them end up living on the streets, hungry and with no support or medical help.

Urine and you're out

A famed Austrian museum has fired an employee for washing his hands and face with his urine.

Alfred Zoppelt says he was fired after 23 years of working as an attendant at the Belvedere, a castle in Vienna with major art works. He says his adherence to urine therapy was previously "never a problem."

Zoppelt, 57, said Thursday his notice from Belvedere says he was fired because "you regularly rub urine into your skin, particularly the face and hands. With this, you soil your place of work ... and threaten the health of your co-workers."

A woman answering the Belvedere press department phone confirmed that Zoppelt was fired but refused to give her name or further information.

Believers in urine therapy claim medical and cosmetic benefits but these have not been proven.

Plot synopsis

- Very loosely based on a strange Erie, Penn., bank robbery, the story involves a slacker pizza delivery boy (Jesse Eisenberg) who is kidnapped by two moronic criminals (Danny McBride and Nick Swardson). They strap a bomb to his chest and order him to rob a bank or, in 10 hours, everything will go boom.

A raunchy good time

30 Minutes or Less offers an unexpectedly fun mix of action and humour
This low-rent film won't win an Oscar, but it's guaranteed to entertain

Richard: There's nothing genteel about 30 Minutes or Less. The presence of Danny McBride assures that.

If you don't like his brand of foulmouthed, anything-goes humour, then you'll find very little to like here. But, if McBride turns your crank, you'll find much to like here.

Mark: I am no fan of Danny McBride. He's always playing the same loutish character in every movie. But he worked for me here, probably because the tight script gave him so little wriggle room. On the other hand, I am a fan of Aziz Ansari, and for me he's the standout character in the film, with great and subtle line readings. Jesse Eisenberg? Let's just say he probably won't be nominated for an Oscar for this one.

RC: He may not get nominated for this one, but he does get a good Facebook jab in there. Good to see he can have a sense of humour about The Social Network, the biggest success so far. I have to agree with you about Ansari. He's a manic ball of energy here, and while I thought he might be too much in the beginning, by the end I was glad he was there. The other thing this movie has going for it is the pace. It moves like a rocket. The 90 minutes really does feel like 30 minutes, or less!

MB: I know. I ordered a pizza when the movie started, but it was over before it even arrived! I applaud the producers for knowing that the film is flimsy and ensuring that it doesn't overstay its welcome. We've seen this plot done as a thriller; as a comedy it's not going to be as gripping. But I thought its low-rent setting and general shabbiness fit with the rest of the movie. No one will be talking about the cinematography or costume design, will they?

RC: No they won't, but they will be talking about what a raunchy good time they had at the movies, and I think that is the goal of this kind of movie. It's Like the spiritual cousin to Eisenberg's Zombieland, an unexpectedly fun mix of action and humour.

MB: So it's a movie that aims low, and exceeds expectations!

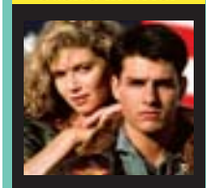
Scene in brief



When Top Gun was released 25 years ago, Kelly McGillis says she was constantly confronted by fans crooning You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin', the song Tom Cruise serenades her with in the hit film. "I couldn't go anywhere without people looking at me and singing to me," McGillis recalls.

‘I’m a fighter, what can I say?’

Conan star Rose McGowan is 103 pounds of ‘you’re gonna die’

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS HOLLYWOOD

SIMON VARSANO

▶ Khalar Zym (Stephen Lang) and Marique (Rose McGowan) in Conan the Barbarian.

In Conan the Barbarian, Rose McGowan ditches her usual glam look to portray Marique, a slithering, blade-wielding sorceress out to help her father (Stephen Lang) raise the dead and take over the world.

The part called for hours in the makeup chair and plenty of swordplay — not that McGowan is complaining, mind you.

Metro sat down with the always outspoken actress to chat about risking injury on set, the future of the Red Sonja remake and fighting above her weight class.

In Conan the Barbarian, you get to play with some pretty fun weapons.

That’s fun, great fun. I think just as a girl I’m so consistently underestimated, especially because I weigh, like, 103 pounds. People treat you like you’re this little doll. I’m like, my brain — which I think is why I’m always so injured — is not in line with what my body is like. So I’m like Scrappy Doo out there, fighting the big guys, which is why I always wind up getting hurt, because I have this unfortunately delicate frame.

With you being in Conan, does this mean you can’t be Red Sonja?

I can’t do that based on my injury. It’s not worth it. It’s not worth paralysis — being that I was paralyzed in my right arm from a stunt gone wrong.

I had three surgeries in my wrist, three in my elbow, part of the elbow bone out. There’s points where you’re like, ‘OK, there are real-life situations and there are movie situations.’

And I’ve done things on film to save a shot. There was a huge camera up on a crane — this was on Death Proof — and it was supposed to swing its arm, and out of the corner of my eye I saw it just falling, just swooping really fast. I should’ve just ducked out of the way, but I didn’t want to ruin the shot, so I just turned my head to side and just laughed. And it literally just whipped through my hair. It would’ve probably decapitated me.

And also on Death Proof, I didn’t want a double to do all the face slamming against the window, so that was all me. I almost shattered my cheekbone. But it looked cool!

Might I suggest you should do some dramas instead?

I just did one! Although actually I got the crap beaten out of me for about two weeks straight by my husband in the movie, now that I think about it.

It was hard not going, ‘I’m going to kick your ass now,’ because I’m used to that instead of just taking it like a mouse.

So does the injury mean you’re looking for fewer genre roles?

I will always. I’m a fighter, what can I say? And it’s also just great fun. I love flying on wires and things being blown up around me and things lighting on fire. That’s the fun part of what I do. I don’t have to sit behind a desk. ‘What did you do at work today?’

‘Well... I flew over a 30-foot wall with a giant mushroom cloud explosion behind me. Half my hair burned off, but it looked fantastic!’

Hathaway no shoe-in for role in new film

Established actress had to fight for spot in One Day

HEIDI PATALANO
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

It goes to show that it doesn't matter if you're an Academy Award nominated actress and accomplished thespian, confidence can be a struggle for anyone. Anne Hathaway isn't shy about admitting this.

"We're all a mixture of arrogance and insecurity," she says of actors. "I'm actually not a terribly confident person, I'm just professional."

Hathaway also readily admits that she was initially rebuffed by director Lone Scherfig when lobbying for the part of Emma Morley in the adaptation of David Nicholls beloved book, One Day.

Playlist

Anne Hathaway's mixtape for her character, Emma Morley:

- Crown of Love by The Arcade Fire The scene where Emma basically breaks up with Dex as a friend, I was listening to that song again and again and again because, I can't even articulate why, but that song sends me into a tailspin.
- Knotty Pine by The Dirty Projectors with David Byrne This is the song I thought really captures Em and Dex particularly in their younger life.
- For Emma Forever Ago by Bon Iver That album, just that feeling of heartache.

It depicts the lives of two friends on one day, July 15, of every year for 20 years. Since the characters happen to be British, Hathaway, who is very distinctly all-American, wasn't having an easy time of it.

"It became a full-frontal assault to get the part," Hathaway says.

"I was sitting in a club in London trying to explain to Lone why I ought to play Emma Morley and failing miserably. It was the worst meeting I ever had."

But nonetheless, Hathaway won Scherfig over and embarked on exploring the lives of the two characters, who share a sexual tension along with a close bond of friendship.

Can a straight man and a straight woman be friends?

She seems to think so. "Yeah, sometimes there's tension but it needn't get in the way of the relationship," she says.

HANDOUT

▶ Anne Hathaway stars in One Day.

"But I'm not the person to answer this question. I've been in a rock solid relationship for three years and I'm a one man woman so I don't really look at other men that way. I'm terribly boring and loyal and true blue and all that."

Everyone's talking.

Movie reviews

Glee: The 3D Concert Movie
Genre: Documentary
Director: Kevin Tancharoen
Stars: Cory Monteith, Dianna Agron, Lea Michele
●●● For Gleeks
●● For everyone else

Glee: The 3D Concert Movie literally sings to the choir. If there ever was a movie made for fans, this is it. A concert film, with real life fan testimonials tucked in between the pop songs and show tunes, the music loses most of its context when there isn't a storyline to play off of. What's left is essentially karaoke with some nifty dance moves thrown in for good measure. Highlights include Lea Michele warbling through a Barbara Streisand tune; but when Mark Salling sings Fat Bottom Girls it doesn't sound so much like a Queen classic as it does the squealing death of rock and roll.

RICHARD CROUSE

Final Destination 5
Genre: Horror/Thriller
Director: Steve Quale
Stars: Nicholas D'Agosto, Emma Bell, Arlen Escarpeta
●●●½

There's something delightfully straightforward about the Final Destination franchise, a series that knows what it is and doesn't pretend to be anything else. It also knows why you're here: to see a group of witless young adults miraculously cheat death, only to have it catch up with them one by one in ever-more complex ways.

The biggest surprise is that, five films in, the franchise is actually at its best, managing to work in macabre laughs and a clever twist that rewards eagle-eyed viewers. But what about those infamous death scenes? Some are more elaborate than others, but all are executed with delicious tension and teasing.

Let's just say you'll never watch a gymnastics contest the same way.

Sarah's Key
Genre: Drama
Director: Gilles Paquet-Brenner
Stars: Kristin Scott Thomas, Melusine Mayance
●●½

Sarah's Key is a well-intentioned, muddled, and self-important drama that attempts to spin a feel good story out of a contemporary reporter uncovering a particularly harsh tale of Holocaust survival. Kristin Scott Thomas stars and brings with her an air of British thespian legitimacy, but none of her wry smirking or pained emoting can conceal the fact that the film is a big screen TV melodrama with director Gilles Paquet-Brenner never more than a few seconds away from a scene of weepy manipulation. Admittedly, some of the Holocaust material is chilling and most of the lead actors do good work. Unfortunately, any effective material is wasted on yet another movie that needlessly turns historical atrocity into big screen sentimentality.

PHIL BROWN

The Whistleblower
Genre: Drama
Director: Larysa Kondracki
Stars: Rachel Weisz, Monic Bellucci, Vanessa Redgrave
●●●

Positioned as a taught political thriller and moralistic tale, the Whistleblower tells the true story of one woman's fight to expose a human trafficking ring facilitated by UN staff in the aftermath of the Bosnian war.

The split perspective between Rachel Weisz's titular American character and a young Eastern European girl forced into sex-slavery gets distracting, though it emphasizes the atrocities at hand.

The Whistleblower pulls few punches but the political coverup at the film's centre never manages to fully grab the audience's attention.

IAN GORMELY

A Gun to the Head
Genre: Comedy
Director: Blaine Thurier
Starring: Craig Anderso

●●½

As a director, Blaine Thurier isn't quite as deft as he he is tweaking keyboards for The New Pornographers. A screwball farce like this requires equal measures of finesse and hopped-up energy, and unfortunately, this film only has too much of the latter. Still, this story of a reformed criminal who literally escapes his domestic prison for a night of illegal thrills has its moments — and the Vancouver views are wonderfully vivid.

Spartacus is back — and with a Vengeance

Producer of Starz originally dismissed Liam McIntyre for role because 'he was so skinny' After months of exercise, this Aussie is gladiator-ready

STEVE GOW
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

There's a new Spartacus coming to television and the latest fierce Thracian gladiator is actually an Australian.

Currently filming its third season, the popular Starz series was sidetracked after its original star Andy Whitfield was forced to back out due to health issues.

"We cast a wide net; we looked all over the world and we found Liam McIntyre," said show creator Steven S. DeKnight of his new star recently in Los Angeles.

"It's heaps more demanding than when I would've expected. Constantly every episode that I've been on is like 'you want me to do what?'"
ACTOR LIAM MCINTYRE, ON PLAYING SPARTACUS

"I remember seeing his first audition, he was so skinny I immediately dismissed him because I didn't know he'd lost so much weight for a previous role but we kept coming back to him — he just had those qualities we needed."

As such DeKnight put his star on a "three-month exercise retainer" and watched him fill out into the part of Spartacus — a hefty role that the actor does not take lightly.

"It's obviously a big job," admitted McIntyre. "You know how much it means to the fans because I was one before this happened. So all I can do is work really, really hard… attack this as hard as you possibly can because you want to do a good show because you love it yourself."

Spartacus: Vengeance debuts in January on The Movie Network but McIntyre has a lot of work in the coming months. Filming the gritty, violent series has definitely proven a workout for the Aussie actor.

"It's heaps more demanding than when I would've expected. Constantly every episode that I've been on is like 'you want me to do what?'" laughed McIntyre. "I look back at some of the stuff and think, that is just mind-blowing."

Empowered women versus

ABC's fall lineup pits speaks volumes about evolving gender roles

METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

"We are known for creating storytelling with empowered women," ABC Entertainment Group President Paul Lee said of his network at the Television Critics Association press tour recently.

He cited hits Desperate Housewives and Grey's Anatomy as examples — along with new additions to the ABC schedule, Charlie's Angels, a remake about the famous trio of butt-kicking women, and Pan Am, following flight attendants in the 1960s.

Yet ABC's fall schedule also includes the new comedies Man Up! and Last Man Standing, series that both attempt to address a perceived demasculinization of the American male.

So what gives? Why is the dissection of gender roles at the forefront of the network's lineup?

"It's the job of television, and has been since we started, to look at the plight of men, to look at the plight of women. And I think we look at it in very different ways," Lee insists.

Here's what the cast and creators of ABC's new "empowered women" and "unmanly men" shows have to say about the message of their series:

"It's our job to create television that questions how people feel in the world."

Last Man Standing
Tim Allen has taken Home Improvement and tweaked it, starring as the father of three daughters who works at a sporting goods company and is distraught that he is "the last real man in a woman's world." So how does Allen define a manly man? "Men need stuff to do. You have to have hobbies, and you should be able to fix stuff," he says.

▶ Check out Last Man Standing Oct. 11 on Citytv

Man Up!
(Premieres Oct. 18 on CTV)

Why is modern man soft? Blame war, says the show's creative team. "We are a generation that has a war, and we are just fortunate enough to have the luxury of other people volunteering and [fighting] for us so we can make a show about the silly antics of three guys in Ohio," says executive producer Christopher Moynihan.

'Pioneers in a lot of ways'
Pan Am
"[Pan Am stewardess] was a coveted position at the time for young women," says series creator Jack Orman.

"They needed to be college educated. They needed to speak several languages, and they were really pioneers in a lot of ways."

At the same time, a certain attractiveness was also part of the job.

"The idea that they have to be subjected to girdle checks and weigh-ins I think adds a certain realism but also an interesting, dramatic twist to the show," Orman adds.

You don't always get what you pay for, especially when it comes to insurance

Are You Paying Too Much?

The motto "you get what you pay for" used to be true of most things, but the times, they are changin', and this is no longer true for many things, most notably car insurance. In fact, you could be paying hundreds, or even thousands of dollars more than you should for your coverage.

How is this possible? It is somewhat complicated to explain, but, to sum it up: Insurance companies base their rates on their experience with similar driver profiles and cars. Since no two companies' experiences are exactly the same, it is rare that different companies will give you the same potential insurance premium for your profile and car.

Experience Counts

It has been statistically proven that drivers over 50 years of age have fewer accidents and tickets than the average, and this means that there are more potential savings to be found for more experienced drivers. In fact, some companies actually specialize in serving the mature market, so it's definitely worth comparing rates.

Loyalty May Not Pay

If you are getting a loyalty discount you might be thinking that you are better off staying with your current insurance provider. This might be true, but it's impossible to be certain without doing some research. You just might find that the potential savings far outweigh any loyalty discount being offered.

Charlie's Angels
ABC isn't downplaying the sexy chicks with guns thing in their reboot of Charlie's Angels, but they're also trying to make the show more about the characters' backstories and camaraderie as a team.

"Thing about 'Charlie's Angels' is … obviously, they're beautiful. They're sexy. They have all of those qualities," series creator Al Gough says of his cast, including Minka Kelly, Rachael Taylor and Annie Ilonzeh.

"But they also have to be warm and relatable," he explains. "The idea [is] that this agency is a family, their family business is being detectives, and the family secrets are the drama that take us through week to week."

Two new comedies are using Brooklyn as both backdrop and character: The more serious-minded I Just Want My Pants Back and multi-cam sitcom 2 Broke Girls.

Executive producer Doug Liman says Pants captures the "artistry" right now in Brooklyn, while Girls is more of a female buddy-comedy poking fun of slacker trust-fund kids.

Less New York and more sweet is New Girl. The crew behind this comedy refers to their lead as "adorkable" rather than cool, but c'mon — it stars Zooey Deschanel.

Meanwhile, Up All Night shows what happens when the cool kids grow up — and get knocked up.

Will Arnett and Christina Applegate star as parents struggling to balance a new baby and their old lifestyle.

Blast from the past
Like Mad Men before them, three new dramas look to the 1950s/1960s for inspiration: The Hour, The Playboy Club and Pan Am.

Kate Hudson says she's aspiring to be like her own parents when it comes to raising her kids.

"My parents allowed my brother and I to have our freedom," she tells Elle magazine. "(We could) be ourselves and feel confident in our choices and make mistakes without too much judgment."

Hudson hopes she "can do as good of a job" as her mom, Goldie Hawn, who "never hands out unsolicited preachy words of wisdom," she says.

And despite having a newborn at home, Hudson isn't slowly down.

"I would never want to be with someone who complains and goes, 'Oh, my God, my life is so crazy,'" she says. "If you make the best of it, it can be amazing."

Hudson admitted though that life has gotten harder since she had her second child but she vowed that it would not change her outlook on life.

American Idol cast remains unchanged

JUST RUMORS. It looks like there won't be any shakeups this year for American Idol, as Jennifer Lopez, Steven Tyler, Randy Jackson and Ryan Seacrest have all reportedly inked deals to return.

"I am delighted to say that all three judges, along with the brilliant host of American Idol, are back for the next season," executive producer Nigel Lythgoe said in a radio interview with Seacrest. Lopez had reportedly been "on the fence" earlier this summer about returning to the reality competition.

Lobster: Little crustacean, big taste

Impress family and friends at your next backyard get-together with delicious barbecued lobster It's healthier than some meat options

NEWS CANADA

Lobster is a healthy option as it contains less cholesterol and calories than meat.

You can impress your friends and family this summer with this delicious and healthy barbecued lobster recipe.

In fact, lobster is an appetizing and very nutritious barbecue option as it contains less cholesterol, calories, and saturated fats than typical grilling choices such as lean beef, pork, and chicken.

This fun summer recipe from Halifax's Clearwater Seafoods, one of the world's leading seafood companies, is an ideal choice for your next backyard get together.

Barbecued Lobster with Red Pepper and Lime Butter

Preparation:

1 Bring large pot of salted water to a boil; plunge in lobsters for 4–6 minutes to blanch. Remove and cool lobsters until you can handle them. Cut in half, lengthwise, remove viscera, and crack claws.

2 Preheat oven to 425 F. Brush red pepper with oil, place on a baking sheet and roast for 15 minutes, turning several times. Remove from oven and cool. Carefully peel off pepper skin, remove seeds and chop pepper. Place softened butter, red pepper, zest and juice from limes in a blender and process until smooth. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne. Set aside at room temperature.

3 Prepare marinade by combining olive oil, garlic, lemon juice, chives, coriander and black pepper. Rub thoroughly over lobster and let stand 20 minutes. Barbecue lobster flesh–side down on a hot grill until golden. Turn, brush flesh with red pepper butter and cook, shell side down for another 6 – 8 minutes. Allow the lobster to rest on warm plates, top with remaining red pepper butter.

NEWS CANADA

Ingredients:

- 4 Clearwater lobsters
- 1 Red bell pepper, peeled and seeded
- 2 tbsp oil
- 1 cup butter, softened
- 2 limes, juice and zest to taste
- Salt and pepper
- pinch Cayenne pepper
- 2 garlic cloves, chopped
- 1 lemon, juices
- 1 ¼ cup fresh chives and coriander, chopped
- Ground black pepper, coarse
- Lemon wedges as garnish

Store lobster

Clearwater Lobster is the most sought after lobster in the world. One of the great things is that it stores easily.

Live:
- Lobsters should be kept cool and moist at 3 to 5 C.
- Store refrigerated, covered with a layer of wet newspaper; no more than 12 hours.
- Do not store live lobsters on ice or in fresh or salted water.

Cooked:
- Keep refrigerated for one to two days. NEWS CANADA

A barbecue wine lesson

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA

Even though I treated my barbecue with kid mitts, last weekend saw the passing of my nearly five-year-old gas fired girl. Sadly, modern grills seem to have the staying power of a Jennifer Lopez marriage so I had to say hello to a shiny new addition to my back deck.

I like nothing better than a nicely prepared burger so a plethora of patties was the best way to christen my latest investment. It was also a great opportunity to experiment with a barbecue-ready wine.

The Rhone Valley is the home of the syrah grape (a.k.a. shiraz) to the north and the grenache grape to the south. Those reds labelled Côtes du Rhône come from vineyards throughout and are often a blend of both.

Ogier's 2009 Héritages Côtes du Rhône ($14.95 - $17.99) is a well-balanced combo of ripe, black fruit (from the grenache) and subtle pepper spice (thanks to the syrah), which makes it a perfect grilling wine with enough fruit to work nicely with milder sauces, marinades and a cornucopia of condiments. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Black Hoof Cocktail Bar
The owners of the Black Hoof have postponed the opening of BHCO until Spring 2012, but in its place have opened a cocktail bar. Vodka drinkers be warned: none of the clear liquid will find its way into any of the mixes at 923 Dundas Street West. The Black Hoof Cocktail Bar is another spot bringing true cocktail culture to Toronto's scene, something we're definitely lacking in the Big Smoke.

ALL CAPS! Island Festival
One of the best spots in the city for some summer respite is Toronto Island, and this weekend the urban oasis plays host to the ALL CAPS! Island Festival. Live bands, art installations, film screenings, night-time bonfires, and more await at this year's fest, so be sure to grab your passes and catch the next ferry. August 13th and 14th. For more check out Notable.ca/metro/august12.

4

Conscious Food Festival
Toronto is one of the few cities in Canada really on the forefront of local and ethical food choices – or, at least, we have some of the most conscious foodies around. This festival brings together sustainable food merchants offering up amazing bites that are local and natural. It's "fun apetit!" August 13th and 14th. For more check out Notable.ca/metro/august12.

5

The Ex
Yes, ladies and gents, it's already that time of year. The Ex rolls into town starting next Friday, and this two-week long fest is a staple on Toronto's summer circuit. Grab a funnel cake, hop in a teacup, touch the sky on a ferris wheel, lose your hard-earned cash in the midway, and grab a bite of this year's odd culinary treat (we use the term lightly) deep-fried Kool-Aid. August 19th to September 5th.

I know, I know, TIFF 2011 doesn't kick off until September 8th, but ticket packages are already on sale for this year's fest. As of Tuesday, all the films were announced, and it's time to start doing your research and deciding what notable flicks you can't miss. Some ticket packages are already sold out, so be sure to get online and see what ones are left.

Thank you for the memories

Norman Jewison honoured with retrospective Humble film director says some of his films 'worked very well'

AARON VINCENT ELKAIM/THE CANADIAN PRESS

In a brick-lined post-and-beam office packed with memorabilia, veteran Canadian filmmaker Norman Jewison strides across the room to display one of his best-loved treasures: a director's chair.

Its caramel-hued leather seat worn soft over the decades, the showpiece has travelled with the 84-year-old to nearly every movie set in his four-decade career.

He notes it was a gift to him from the crew of his second film, 1963's The Thrill of it All, starring Doris Day and James Garner.

"I guess they figured I was going to be around for a while so they wanted to make sure I could sit down," Jewison quips, offering up the first of several chuckles as he recounts a varied career that established him as one of Hollywood's most acclaimed storytellers.

Of course, Jewison would go on to helm a diverse slate of movies that include the civil rights landmark In The Heat of the Night, the satirical comedy The Russians Are Coming! The Russians Are Coming!, and the romantic classic, Moonstruck.

A retrospective of Jewison's work – which has racked up a total of 46 Academy Award nominations and 12 wins – kicks off Thursday in Toronto at TIFF Bell Lightbox, hosted by the Toronto International Film Festival and TV Ontario.

The self-effacing director is modest in the lead-up to this latest tribute, which follows a star-packed salute from New York's Film Society of Lincoln Center in May and a coveted lifetime achievement award from the Directors Guild of America in January 2010.

Sharapova latest star to fall

Unheralded Galina Voskoboeva of Kazakhstan stole the show at the Rogers Cup on a day that marked the ousting of one of the sport's biggest stars, along with a couple of newly minted Grand Slam champs.

Voskoboeva, ranked 135th in the world, dispatched No. 5 seed Maria Sharapova 6-3, 7-5 in a thrilling match at Rexall Centre.

The 26-year-old, who ousted Marion Bartoli and Flavia Pennetta to earn her date with Sharapova, beat the Russian star with soft drop shots and had the veteran chasing balls to the baseline all game long.

Sharapova became the latest casualty of the Rogers Cup women's draw, hours after No. 6 seed Li Na bowed out of third-round action with a 6-2, 6-4 loss to No. 10 seed Samantha Stosur of Australia. Li became the first Asian player to win a Grand Slam singles title two months ago at the French Open.

And No. 11 Andrea Petkovic of Germany joined Stosur in the quarter-finals after cruising by seventh-seeded Petra Kvitova of the Czech Republic 6-1, 6-2. Kvitova won Wimbledon last month to claim her first Grand Slam title.

Stuck in first gear

◗ Jays get little traction against A's, who roll to easy series victory ◗ Mills allows six runs in an inning ◗ Toronto commits two errors

10	3
ATHLETICS	BLUE JAYS

Brad Mills' location issues became a problem for the Toronto Blue Jays on Thursday.

The left-hander allowed six runs in his third and final inning in the shortest start of his major-league career as the Oakland Athletics won the rubber match of the three-game series 10-3.

The Blue Jays had a slow start and stayed that way.

"We were flat, there was no question about it," manager John Farrell said. "Typically in day games you have to set the tone from the mound and we were unable to do that."

The Blue Jays (59-58) committed two errors, gave up nine walks and hit two batters as the Athletics (53-64) got three runs batted in from Conor Jackson on a triple and a sacrifice fly.

Hideki Matsui had four hits and two RBIs and Cliff Pennington hit a two-run double while Guillermo Moscoso (5-6) allowed two runs, one earned, and three hits while striking out five in six innings for Oakland.

J.P. Arencibia hit his 19th homer of the season for Toronto in the seventh inning against Fautino De Los Santos.

Arencibia is one home run short of John Buck's club record for home runs by a catcher set in 2010. Eric Hinske has the club's record for a rookie with 24 homers in 2002.

Oakland scored six runs against Mills in the third inning before he could retire a batter. In his third start this season with Toronto, Mills allowed six runs, five hits and two walks in his three innings.

"The fastball location up in the zone is where he got hurt most," Farrell said.

The A's added four runs, three unearned, in the sixth against left-hander Luis Perez.

"It's not the first time I've had a bad inning," said Mills, who was making his third start since being recalled from triple-A Las Vegas. "It won't be the last. It's not the end of the world, but I feel bad that I wasn't able to help the team get off to a good start. It's not the first time I've failed out there, it won't be the last.

"I'm mentally tough enough to come back and get over it real quick."

The A's big third started with a walk to Adam Rosales and Scott Sizemore doubling him to third.

Pennington drove in two runs when he hit a double over the head of left-fielder Eric Thames, who could have made a better play on the ball.

Matsui, who had a 15-game hit streak snapped on Tuesday, singled to score Pennington to end a 0-for-10 drought. Since the all-star break, Matsui is hitting .426 with 25 RBIs in 24 games. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rough-riding out the storm

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

Roughriders fans want heads to roll after a 1-5 start, but maybe the faithful green horde is a little delusional. Yes, their mighty Riders made three Grey Cup appearances in four seasons, but the team was merely 10-8 during the 2010 regular season before getting hot in the playoffs.

Their dismal start has many fans insisting quarterback Darian Durant's a dud, head coach Greg Marshall is an idiot and that general manager Brendan Taman couldn't find his butt with both hands.

There are even rumblings of a rift between Durant and offensive co-ordinator Doug Berry.

Their weakest link is the offence, which has struggled without Andy Fantuz (NFL), Rob Bagg (knee) and Cary Koch (thumb), a blow that would affect any team's production.

Now the Riders find themselves in a West turtle derby with B.C., but anything can happen once you make the playoffs, as the Riders proved last season.

Swagger before a stumble?: The Blue Bombers have taken to calling Winnipeg's turf "Swaggerville" after blasting out of the gates with a 5-1 record, good for first place in the East.

The Bombers' defence has 25 sacks through six games while Odell Willis leads the pack with eight. The defence is allowing a measly 18.8 points and 289.5 yards per game, league lows, and it has a CFL-best 10 picks.

With those stats they deserve to act a little cocky, but CFL fortunes can shift faster than the San Andreas Fault, and we could be calling them the Suicide Bombers come November.

No Stamps dampens Eskimos' chances: Eskimos receiver Fred Stamps was off to such a great start some folks in Edmonton were dreaming of a new CFL receptions record. That all came crashing down after Stamps required abdominal surgery this week.

Stamps, who had four 100-yard games this season, was accidentally kicked in the groin by Winnipeg's Jonathan Hefney last weekend, a crushing blow to the Esks offence. Of equal concern for Edmonton fans is the continued good health of QB Ricky Ray, who was sacked four times in the Winnipeg loss. The star pivot must stay healthy for the surprising Esks to challenge for first place this season.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You may be at your most confident. But you must accept that some people will not agree with your views.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Some people get emotional for the most ridiculous of reasons. Such a person will give you a hard time today.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Only you can decide to continue with something you had high hopes for.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You will have to be tough on people who lack your vision and passion but you must be sympathetic, too.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Follow your gut, even if it leads you in directions not everyone is happy with.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You may be tempted to tell a lie to avoid a conflict but chances are you will just make matters worse.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Everyone's emotions are a little bit on edge with the approaching full moon. Strive to stay calm.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Take initiative and show people that you are the kind of individual who can be trusted to get a job done.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 If you want to be happy, you need to be out and about, seeing new places, meeting new people.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Try not to worry too much about your cash flow situation.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 If you have a bad feeling about what someone is proposing, act on it.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. You seem to be working harder than ever but are you working towards your objectives or those of other people? SALLY BROMPTON
